

USDA-FNS Presents

Loving Your Family... What's It All About?

User Response Cards

USDA/FNS is interested in your suggestions and feedback regarding the Loving Your Family... initiative.

Included in the Staff Support Kit and available online at the Food Stamp Nutrition Connection (<http://foodstamp.nal.usda.gov>) there is a User Response Card.

This User Response Card allows nutrition educators to provide their opinion to FNS on the usefulness of the Loving Your Family... materials and make suggestions as to what other materials would be helpful to nutrition educators in the future.

FNS will utilize these recommendations to improve materials so as to continue to provide resources that are functional and needed by educators in the field.

Even if you only utilize certain aspects of the materials your opinion on these components is valuable. The User Response Card is broken down by individual components for all the available materials so that you can provide feedback on each piece of material that you put to use.

Completed User Response Cards can be faxed to:

703-305-2576

Knowledge Flow Schematic

The Knowledge Flow Schematic was developed to give a visual representation of how the various pieces of the Loving Your Family... initiative work together and how the materials are interrelated. The basic core of the initiative is based around the 2005 Dietary Guidelines for Americans and MyPryamid. These principles along with the social marketing research for the initiative influenced the final products creating the materials for educators and materials for participants. The Knowledge Flow schematic can be downloaded from the FSNC web site.
